

When you turn 20, you must enroll in the National Pension system and pay contributions by law.

When you have difficulty paying contributions:

Special Payment System for Students

Support system for students!

What is this system?

If you are age 20 or older, you need to pay contributions. If you have difficulty paying contributions because of limited income, this system allows students to postpone the payment of contributions.

Who is it for?

Any student of universities (including graduate schools and junior colleges), specialized schools, night-time schools, schools with correspondence courses in Japan.

Security

Security for unexpected event

If you apply late, you may not be able to receive benefits.

If you become disabled or die while you are granted payment postponement, disability benefits or survivors' benefits will be paid.

Easy

Application is easy

You just need to submit a copy of your student ID card with the application.

In two weeks after you turn 20, JPS sends you a "Notification of enrollment to National Pension" form and application form for the special payment system for students.

Convenient

Continuous application for next school year is convenient

You just need to fill in the card-type application for continuous application for next school year.

At your first application, just enter your expected graduation month/ year, then JPS will send you card-type application for continuous application next year.
